

DIVORCE OR SEPARATION & PARENTS

We want our children to be successful, happy and healthy. We help them overcome obstacles, teach them right from wrong, offer them encouragement, protection and support. However, it is common for children of divorce to experience occasional problems.

It is not the event of divorce or separation itself that has the greatest impact on a child. It is the actions parents take during and after the divorce that make the difference between a child who is unscathed and the one who is scarred for life.

The choices you make will significantly impact your child's adjustment to their family separation. To help your child navigate divorce successfully demands that you keep a vigilant eye out for obstacles that can harm your child.

You have the power to create a family story that fulfills your vision for both you and your child. The key is a commitment to ensure the safe passage of your child through this significant life change.
